

Ebenezer Ogunyinka earned a M.S. degree in Statistics and a Ph.D. degree in Economics (Specialty: Agricultural Economics) from the Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas. He is currently an Economist in the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries where he works on numerous federal and state projects including Monitoring Recovery of Gulf States Fisheries in the aftermath of Hurricanes (2005 upward), Trip Ticket Data Analysis and Recreational Surveys.

He provides statistical advisories on wildlife and fisheries projects. He has published many articles or reports on Agricultural Production and Productivity, Food Demand and Health Advisory Awareness among Louisiana Anglers. In addition, he has presented research findings in numerous professional meetings and workshops.

Areas of Work: Resource Economics, Applied Statistics, Productivity and Technological Change.